Ah. faithlesspirit! And wherefore sigh?
Hast thou forgotten who hung the sky?
Who rolled the rivers, and bade them flow
Out of the treasures of the snow?
Who brings the dew-drop sweetly up
To fill the wine in the wild rose cup?
Shait thou not trust thyself in his hand,
To use as his primal purpose planned?
Will that hand loose thee and let thee go?
Who fisshioned thee, loved thee, forget thee so?
Shalt thou not slumber, no more perplexed, Though—Here one moment, but where the

A HEROIC GIRL. A Daughter's Efforts to Discover the Murderers of Her Father-Experi-

Mr. I- and myself visited the residance of the missing man, at the request of his wife, and by her we were charged with the duty of tracing to justice his supposed murderers. She was a tall, elegant looking lady, of commanding presence and great culture. The wealth of her rich beauty and fine mind were inherited by her daughter, a young girl, scarcely twenty years. The terrible bereavement had paralyzed | Photograph Albums. the senses of the mother, but had aroused the energy and fire of the young girl's nature. More like a beautiful Nemesis than an ordinary woman, she appeared to us. As we entered the room, she was in the act of consoling her mother. The long black hair had escaped from finement and almost enveloped her person in ebon tresses. The great, uminous eyes were tearful, but flashing and full of fire. The face was dark with the blood of her PRESENTERIAN COMMITTEE OF Spanish race, but the figure was queenly, slender and faultless as a model. The glorious beauty of this young girl fascinated while it be wildered you. Rare in its exquisite loveliness, the eye delighted to rest on the willowy outline and graceful symmetry. Starting up as we entered the room, she inquired hastily, almost fiercely, I thought: " Are you the detectives?"

"We are," and I mentioned our "I must speak to you in private,

she said, and led the way to an adjoining spartment. "What do you think of the matter?" she asked, when out of hearing of her mother.

" As yet an opinion would be mere guess work," I replied. "Nevertheless, I have come to one. I have no doubt he has been murdered, and that the deed was committed somewhere near the old ruinous building near the river." "Some such idea has crossed my mind, but there is no trace as yet, which can lead to proof of it" "We will find it, rest assured," she said, "and to this end you must co-operate with me; and now listen to what I have to say: To-night, at 12 o'clock precisely, do you two visit the old building. I will be there. Ask for the young woman who applied at nightfall to them for shelter. Let your object be, apparently, to arrest her. But I do not understand."

"But you will. I am going there at dusk, disguised as a beggar girl. By the time you come my information will have been collected." She rose to her feet as she spoke, and now indeed she wore the appearance of the Nemesis I had likened her to at first. Beautiful, but rigid as fate, looked now that set, determined face. The beautiful eyes had lost their softened luster, and shone now with a passionate light almost cruel. The lips were pale, but rigid as iron, and the beautiful nostril dilated with an expression of heartconsuming vengeance. "I will read the guilty secret," she said, "if the criminal be there; however deep in his heart he may bury it."

Strange as it may appear, I made no attempt to dissuade her from her purpose. I could not. I felt as if the beautiful creature exercised over me a magnetic control. And with this understanding we took our leave, to prepare for the night visit to the old house and its dangerous inhabitants.

Those acquainted with the city at that period can form some idea of the danger of the plot we have tormed. To us it was a matter of daily occurrence. But for the young girl, inexperienced and temberly unitured, to thrust herself into the yers house of the unscrupulous and rected of this crime, was simply appalling. It would not do, however, to go to the place before the that would defeat the object in view.
It was, therefore, with many a mis mixing, and an uneasiness but poorly concealed, we bided our time. But we determined to be there at the very moment, and the clock was on the stroke of midnight when we knocked at the door. The outside of the bonse gave no signs of life TIGHT BARREL STAVES. Highest market within. She seemed too thinly clad for that cold night, and her slender frame shivered as if from cold, as the chill air from the open door swept in.

"What do you want?" was the stern question addressed to us by one of the men at the fire. Before I had time to reply the girl sprung to her feet and spoke instead "Arrest these men!" Her voice was low, but the face, flashing in the light of the fire, was that of the Ne-

Bull's Worm Destroyer.

Maxwell House & Post Office. UNITED STATES AND WORD WIDE READERS. I have received many testimonials from pro-fessional and medical men, as my almanace and various publications have shown, all of which are genuine. The following letter from a highly educated and popular physician in Georgia, is certainly one of the most sensi-ble communications I have ever received. Dr. Clement knows exactly what he speaks of and his testimony deserves to be written in words of gold. Hear what the Doctor says of Bull's WORM DESTROYME:

DB. John Bull.—Dear Sir: I have recently given your "Worm Destroyer" several trials and finish is wonderfully emeacious. It has not failed in a single instance to have the wished for effect. I am doing a pretty large country practice, and have daily use for some article of the kind. I am free to confess that I know of no remedy recommended by the ablest authors that is so certain and speely in its effects. On the contrary they are uncertain in the extreme. My object in writing you is to find out upon what terms I can get it upon easy terms, I shall use a great deal of it. I am aware that the use of such articles is contrary to the teachings and practice of a great majority of the Securan line of M. D.'a, but I see no just cause or good sense in discarging a remety which we know to be efficient, simply because we may be ignorand of tecombination. For my part, I shall make it releio use all and any means to alleviate suffer a humanity which I may be able to command—not hesitating because some one more ingenious than my self may have learned its effects first, and secured the sole right to secure that knowledge. SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP FOR THE CURE OF AGUE AND FEVER.

CHILLS AND F The proprietor of thus celebrated medicina-justly claims for it a superiority over all rem-edies ever offered to the public for the sair, certain, speedy and permanent cure of Ague and Fover, or Chills and Fover, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the en-tire Western and South-western country to bear him testimony to the troth of the asser-tion, that in no case whatever will it fail to cure, if the directions are strictly followed cure, if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single does has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by single notice, with a perfect restoration of general health. It is, however, presents, and in every case more certain to care, if its use is contined in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, if ore especially in difficult and long standing cases. Oscally the medicine will not require any side to keep in difficult and long standing cases. Countly this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order; should the patient sowerer, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four desce of the Tonic,
a single dose of BULL's Vegetable Family
